CHURCH ASKED TO REGULATE DANCING

NORE LENIENT ATTITUDE IN SUNDAY REGULATION

Is Asked For In the Moral Welfare Report—Sense of Perspective Seems Lost—Card Playing As a Diversion Is Recommended If Properly Subordinated Sabbath Regulation Pointed Out As Depending On Place of Application.

"An overwhelming large number of Christian people approve dancing under right conditions," conceded the committee on moral welfare, reporting before the afternoon meeting of the seventh annual Ohio Pastors' convention, opening at Memorial hall, Tuesday, in Columbus.

This report, admitting the prevalence of dancing and card playing, called upon churches in Ohio to "distinguish between the proper practice and the abuse" of these diversions. Sunday observance was the other principal topic taken up in the report.

"Other than amusements concerning which there is no question in anybody's mind," said the committee chairman, Rev. F. Q. Blanchard, of Cleveland, quoting from the prepared statement, "there are certain ones which are peculiarly likely to abuse and which thus threaten to become a menace to the ideals for which the church stands. Notable and typical among these may be mentioned dancing and card playing."

"While there are still those who disapprove, they represent a minority which cannot hope to influence public opinion to the extent of committing the church to a policy of condemnation," continued the report, adding that "dancing often is so carried on to be not only an enormous waste of time, but a source of danger to morals. It may well be considered an essential part of ethical instruction in the church to develop right thinking and right acting in the matter of dancing."

"A similar observation should be made of card playing. Many women, especially, waste time over harmless diversions to a degree that is positively wrong. Sense of perspective seems lost. The church may well speak wisely thru pulpit utterance upon the importance of keeping card clubs properly subordinate to really significant demands upon time." The committee deplored the prevalence of gambling in connection with some amusements and urged churches to combat this practice by pointing out "its folly and danger," and by leading the organization of public sentiment for law enforcement.

Passing to the subject of Sunday observance, the committee declared that "the attitude of the rural town cannot be forced with any hope of success upon the cosmopolitan city," and urged clear recognition that legal regulation must be based entirely upon the need of securing a day of rest for those who work.

"Legislation," said the report, "cannot be based upon religious dogmas, even with all citizens agreed upon what the dogmas should be. The modern state is not a theocracy. All that those who are concerned with the development of religion may ask of the state is freedom to carry on their program. The business of the church fundamentally to preach the Christian ideal of Sunday and primarily to secure on the part of its most loyal constituency obedience to it."

Churches in each community were urged to decide for themselves what legal Sunday regulation they will ask as a result of such action, said the committee, "we shall not have a universal code for Sunday observance, but we may hope to have codes which will be generally observed."

Stating that "the tendency of our day is toward neglect of instruction in righteousness and Christian training within the home," the committee on evangelism and religious training urged the need for a well-organized religious educational program, marked by "cooperation between home, church and state."

Committee chairmen who presented Tuesday's report were: Evangelism, Rev. Ida D. Warner, Akron; moral welfare, Rev. F. Q. Blanchard, Cleveland; religious education, Rev. Hugh Ivan Evans, Dayton.

Rev. William Hiram Foulkes of Cleveland, convention chairman, will deliver the annual chairman's address "Together," at the Tuesday evening session at 7:30 o'clock. At the same meeting the Rt. Rev. Warren L. Rogers, Episcopal bishop coadjutor of Cleveland, will speak on "United for Service."

The Pastors' convention will extend thru Wednesday and Thursday.

When discovered Locker drew a revolver and fired, the farmer said. Roper pursued him and in the ensuing exchanges of shots Locke was killed. Mrs. Jones was captured.

Lorain—Henry Ford's resurrection of the old-fashioned dance steps, has struck what may be an irreparable blow to Lorain exponents of the Charleston and other modern versions of terpsichore.

At the request of Councilman John G. Gluvna, who demands a return of the "steps we danced when we were young," the city council has ordered drawn legislation that would ban modern dances in Lorain ball rooms.

Cleveland —Government attorneys were preparing Tuesday to launch an investigation in the alleged attempt to influence jurors in the trial of Josiah Kirby, former president of the defunct $30,000,000 Cleveland Discount company, charged with using the mails to defraud.

DECISION OF FARREACHING IMPORTANCE

Children and Heirs of Job E.
Stevenson Win Partition Case in High Court.

The supreme court of Ohio handed down a decision Tuesday in one of what is known as the Stevenson-Cable partition cases.

Soon after the death of Job E. Stevenson, Mrs. Eva Stevenson Cable commenced several suits in Pickaway county and one in Champaign county for partition of several thousand acres of land which had been devised under the will of John Evans, who died in 1848.

Mrs. Cable claimed that she was entitled to a one-eighth part of all these lands, while the other children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs of E. O. Stevenson, who was a brother of Job E. Stevenson claimed that the partition should be limited and confined to a portion of these lands which was a one-half thereof of which had been been set off to Job E. Stevenson, who had a life estate therein.

The suit in Champaign county was prosecuted principally as a test case and carried thru the courts of common pleas and court of appeals to the supreme court, which rendered its decision in favor of the children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs at law of E. O. Stevenson, affirming the judgment of the lower courts. Massie & Evans of Chillicothe, Owen & Miller and Owen & Owen represent the plaintiff. Abernethy & Simkins and John Logan of Washington C. H., represent the children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs of E. O. Stevenson.

PRESIDENT OF THRESHERMEN HIT OFFICERS

A. E. Fisher Says People are Restless and Resentful
Over Tax Load.

"Two-thirds of the political job holders in the state ought to be fired" was the introductory statement of A. E. Fisher, Orient, president of the Ohio Brotherhood of Threshermen, in his annual address at the opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of that organization at the New Southern hotel, Columbus, Tuesday, which will continue thru Thursday.

"Earning their salary—that's a joke," continued President Fisher. "Every holiday they beat it and usually start about four days before the holiday. Besides, they have their annual vacations of a month or six weeks to recuperate from the strain of watching the clock, while the rest of us who pay the taxes have to hustle six full days a week so the office holder can live. This applies to county as well as city and state offices."

"Political office seekers know what the office pays, but soon after being elected they begin to want an increase in pay and more force in the office. This means more taxes to be paid."

"Farmers are entitled to a return on their investment and they do not want to be borrowing money all the time. What they want is good prices for what they have to raise, and they need a system of marketing that will cut out some of the profits between them and the consumer."

"Why should Ohio farms be placed on the tax duplicate at greatly enhanced valuations without investigating the earning power of the men and capital engaged in agriculture."

"The expense of the state government has increased enormously and incredibly in the last few years and the people are restless and resentful over the heavy load of war taxes in time of peace and feel they are getting no better service on the advanced cost."

"If we could dispose of numerous unnecessary high salaried commissions and reduce the salaries of state and county officials in proportion to the reduction made in selling prices and net profits, the farmer, laborer, home builder would have little cause for complaint."

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWNE

(Copyright.)

Crockey Mule Breaks Up the Circus

RUTH was lying stretched out full length on a bear-skin rug in front of the fireplace. It was the first time that the fire had been lighted since last winter. Ruth enjoyed the warmth of it, and perhaps even more she enjoyed watching the dancing flames. Beside Ruth was her geography which she had just left off studying. On the other side of her, next to the fireplace, was a toy Noah's ark and some tin soldiers with which her younger brother had been playing before Ruth's mother had come in and carried him away to bed.

As she lay on the rug, Ruth rested her chin on the backs of her two folded hands and stared straight into the coals.

Ruth watched and listened and the heat was nice and comfortable. She was just telling herself that she felt drowsy when she noticed that something was moving at the back of the fireplace. She watched. First it was a shadow. Then it was nothing. Next it was a clearer shadow. Last, right out through the hot coals, walked her little old friend the kindly Crockeyjoy.

He took hold of the grate bars at the front of the fireplace and pulled himself up to the top one. There he sat and looked about him for a moment in silence.

"Well, Ruth," he said at last, "it's a wee bit chilly outside tonight and if we went out you might catch cold. I think I can fix up something to amuse you, though. How would a circus please you?"

"Fine!" cried Ruth in delight.

"Then here goes!" shouted the Crockeyjoy as though he, too, were pleased with the thought.

In less than the time it takes for a camel to bob his head up and down three times, Ruth had shrunk to the size of the Crockeyjoy. The two of them then walked over to the side of the rug which lay on the floor under the table. On this rug were figured three big rings.

"Sit down here and wait," said the Crockeyjoy. Then he took his shiny brass whistle from the vest pocket of his tunic and blew several shrill calls on it. No sooner had he done this than out from the fireplace came a long line of folks from Crockey Town. The Crockeyjoy's nephew, the Cat With Jeweled Eyes, the Queen of the Fairies, Stubby the Mole, Captain Thunderjoy and all the other folks whom Ruth had ever met, came trooping along.

After they were on the rug, the Crockeyjoy again put his whistle to his lips and blew shrilly. Then the most amazing thing happened.

All the Noah's ark animals got to their feet. The tin soldiers stood up at attention and saluted.

It was a very funny circus. The Crockeyfolks played at being clowns, and lion tamers, and cowboys. Captain Thunderjoy made a booming speech and cracked a big black whip. The Cat With Jeweled Eyes climbed on top of the elephant's head and sang a high-pitched little song. The Crockeyjoy's nephew played at being a clown. He went from animal to animal and asked them ridiculous questions. And all the animals answered him, for they could talk just like the Crockeyfolks.

Among the animals which the Crockeyjoy's nephew teased was a little white mule with a string of bells about his neck. The nephew took off his hat, cut two slits in the sides of it, then pulled it onto the mule's head and down so that its ears stuck through the slits. Then he put on his roller skates and started to skate all around the white mule's body. He could skate upside down and sideways every bit as well as when he stood straight up. He made himself a sort of loop-the-loop by skating straight around the mule's body. Up one side and down the other, faster and faster he went. His skates dug into the mule's ribs and tickled him.

"Ha-Ha-He-Haw-Ha-Ha," laughed the mule. "Quit tickling me. Quit tickling me." But the nephew only went faster.

Then the white mule started to kick frantically, in all directions. He knocked over a row of tin soldiers. There was a mighty racket. Everyone began to run.

Ruth raised her head. When she looked about her, she saw that a sudden gust of wind had tumbled over the Noah's ark and some of the tin soldiers with it. At least that was what seemed to have happened when her mother looked in a moment later.

Ruth said nothing about the Crockey circus. She jumped to her feet, kissed her mother good-night, and ran away to bed.

PHANTOM BANDIT RETURNS LOOT

Lorain, Jan. 18.—(UP.)—More than $3,000 in loot taken by Lorain's phantom bandit in forty robberies during the last two months, was returned today.

The loot, consisting of money and jewels, had been placed in a box and left on the steps of a school. The box was found by two boys and turned over to the police.

The return of the stolen articles was not due to conscience, however, because the burglar entered four more residences last night. In only one, the home of a minister, was anything taken.

Police believe the robberies are the work of some person in search of a thrill.

Greenfinch a Fine Bird,

Washington.—The Department of Agriculture has determined that the vireo, or greenfinch, while a charming songster and useful destroyer of harmful insects, is ungainly to ladybird beetles, which also are beneficial to man and are thoroughly harmless. In fact, he eats them.

This is the only severe indictment the department has found against the vireo, all the species of which were declared in a bulletin issued to be among the most useful of birds, being especially fond of caterpillars, either plain or woolly, scale insects, weevils, ants and grasshoppers.

Long Corn Shuck Gives Protection

Scientists Discover Method for Keeping Out the Corn-Ear Worm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The corn scientists have found a way to fool the corn-ear worm. Now they are trying to develop a type of corn with a shuck extending well beyond the tip end of the ear for growing in the South, where the corn-ear worm is an active ally of another pest—the corn weevil. The corn-ear worm has a natural habit of entering the ear at the tip end of the shuck, eating his fill as he progresses down along the ear and finally cutting his way out when he is fed up. These holes made by his exit have proved to be ideal places for the weevil to enter and do further damage. The scientists have found that when the corn-ear worm enters a long-tipped shuck, however, he is more apt to bore out before he reaches the kernels, consequently doing less damage to the ear and also leaving fewer open doors for the weevil.

A number of years ago the United States Department of Agriculture showed that the weevils were unable to cut through corn husks, although they could eat the hardest rice popcorn without difficulty. The problem accordingly was to produce husk-protected strains that also would be good yielders. The problem was not a simple one, but some suitable and fairly desirable strains were found. Then it was discovered that the weevils were relying on the work of the corn-ear worm to gain entrance.

Now the problem is to develop a strain of corn that has long-tipped husks. As yet the experimenters are having some difficulty in developing a type with husks of sufficient length to fool the corn-ear worm and not too long to prevent the emergence of the silk, so that the ear will fill well. Some encouragement for the ultimate solution of the problem, however, lies in the fact that there is considerable variation among the strains in the length of husk projection that causes poorly filled ears. These strains will furnish the corn breeder with raw material to shape into the self-protecting, long-tipped variety that is wanted.

Quality of Silage

For the best quality of silage the crop must be put in at the proper time. Sorghums make excellent silage if not put in too green. Corn should go in when the kernels are glazed and denting but the sorghums must not go in until the heads are practically mature and the seed cannot be crushed with the fingers. The acid in sorghum silage is actually less than that in corn silage when the crop is put in at the proper stage.

Offers $3,000 Prize for American Symphony

New York.—A prize of $3,000 awaits the American composer of an American symphony or symphonic work. The winning composition will be selected by five of the nation's prominent symphony conductors, who will give it a first performance in as many cities.

The contest is sponsored by Musical America, which seeks to stimulate American composers. The symphony award will be followed by a similar contest for an American opera. A third contest will be for an American choral work.

The only restriction placed on contestants for the symphonic work is that each must be an American citizen, born or naturalized.

The board of judges consists of Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York symphony; Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra; Serge Koussevitzki, conductor of the Boston symphony; Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago symphony, and Alfred Hertz, conductor of the San Francisco symphony. Each of these conductors has promised his enthusiastic co-operation.

FOLLOW THE CROWD

Some firms advertise by mailing circulars. Pickaway County has about 5,000 homes. Circulars mailed to each home costs the sender about $150.

Money spent in this manner must be added to the overhead expense and the customer pays that expense.

The Circleville Welding Co.'s policy has always been to reduce expense and give the customer the benefit of the saving. Having been in business for the past six years we need no introduction. All the leading industries of Circleville and the many surrounding towns have their work done here. Why not you. We don't do a cheap job merely to meet competition but do you a real 100 per cent job at as a reasonable price as possible.

Welding and brazing is our business, nothing else. Bring your next job here and compare the difference in workmanship.

HE HAD been out in the slush. His shoes were wet. He put his feet on the rim of the stove. It wasn't very hot, but wet leather parches easily, so he ruined a good pair of "Star Brand" shoes and didn't know it.

We're proud of our "Star Brand" shoes. They're made up to a high standard of quality, from the finest grades of solid leather.

But leather won't stand much heat—especially wet leather—and that's why we always caution our friends to be careful not to get their "Star Brands" too close to the fire.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Military Salute

One explanation of the origin of the military salute is that which goes back to the Middle Ages in the time of jousts and tournaments, when a queen of beauty was chosen and enthroned.
The knight about to take part in the contest walked past the throne and placed his hand in a horizontal position over the eyebrows to shield his eyes from the brilliancy of her beauty.

Advising a Friend

Give thy friend counsel wisely and charitably, but leave him to his liberty whether he will follow thee or no; and be not angry if thy counsel be rejected, for advice is no empire, and he is not my friend that will be my judge whether I will or no.—Jeremy Taylor.

LOANS up to $500

With the turning of the New Year, and upon sober reflection of your doings for the past year, you will probably "plead guilty" to some excesses; and resolve to live at a more moderate pace during 1926.

Be honest with yourself, and look your problem squarely in the face.
If it's bad habits—correct them!

If it's loafing—get busy! if it happens to be excessive spending or a shattered credit—come to the City Loan.

A popular loan will probably help you "get squared around" so you can start the New Year "with a clean slate."

FALSE NOTION OF MARRIAGE IS PREVALENT

Cannot be Predestined and Must Shape Itself to the Human Nature.

Chicago, Jan. 19, (UP).—The ancient superstition that "marriage was made in heaven" has much to do with the increasing number of divorces, according to Professor David Seabury, of New York.

"Marriage must shape itself to human nature and it is silly to think that they can be pre-destined" Professor Seabury declared in an address at the Sinai temple last night.

"There is nothing more insane than the present marriage ceremony in which the contracting parties promise to 'love forever,' the professor said.
"It is biologically and psychologically impossible for two persons to make such a promise because love is not of the will.

"I believe that God is love and that what God has joined together let no man put asunder, but unless there is love the couple is not really joined."

Professor Seabury has classified seven kinds of love and explains them
as follows:

1. Mate love. This is the highest form and in this classification the two people are psychic partners, just as happy together as alone—the dual solitude idea.

2. Partnership love. Here it is the desire to build a home and have children that predominates.

3. Romantic love. This follows the Romeo and Juliet idea and lasts only as long as the romance endures. It is looks for angels and gods and needs a mixture of common sense.

4. Emotional love. Magnetic unity like the devotion of a dog for its master, dominates this kind of union.

5. Sex love. Inadequate in itself, but very necessary as a supplement to other forms.

6. Propinquity. Mutual surroundings and experiences controls this form of love.

7. Frigid love. This form is nothing more than marrying for a lunch basket, the search for security and protection. Too many modern marriages are based on this.

"Some day," says the editor of the only one smarter thing he can do, omit from central Asia and at a very early time invaded Europe, settling finally in what are now France and Belgium.

Their degraded paganism was known as Druidism.

PRESIDENT OF KENT SCHOOL MAKING TRIP

Promoting Tour Abroad and is Absent Without Approval of the Trustees.

Kent, O., Jan. 19 (UP).—Work at the Kent State normal school here was resumed today without further interruption despite the enforced resignation of President J. E. McGilvrey, who was charged with "unpardonable conduct."

The school was in charge of E. H. Winters of the state department of education who was appointed to act as temporary executive pending the appointment of a new president by the board of trustees.

Winters was commissioned by Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education who also announced a state examiner is enroute here to conduct an audit of the school books and records.

The charge against President McGilvrey promoted a European tour for students without sanction of the school board of trustees. He was also charged with absenting himself from the school without approval of the board.

McGilvrey is now reported in London completing details for the tour which Winters announced had been definitely cancelled. Money paid by students for advance reservations will be refunded, he said.

In a statement announcing McGilvrey's dismissal, the board of trustees asserted the tour was being promoted "as a college activity without their knowledge or approval."

The tour had been advertised by McGilvrey for more than two years, members of the board declared. The slogan, "On to Europe" has adorned much of the college literature, they said.

In addition to McGilvrey and Van Horn, Mrs. Isabelle C. Bourne, head resident of Moulton hall, the girls' dormitory, was removed from the school staff. The charge against her was not divulged.

Winters in a detailed report to Director Riegel, assailed the entire system in force at the school from the "highest official down to poor janitor service." He asked Riegel to remove the school from the state accredited list pending inauguration of his reorganization program.

In Praise of Dancing

Dancing, the "poetry of motion," formerly a type of religious exercise, the invention of which was ascribed to deity, was also highly esteemed as a gymnastic exercise, the practice of which was compulsory with the Spartans, old and young. Old Anacreon, most light-hearted of Greek poets, looked upon the dance as a rejuvenator of age.

AMUSEMENTS

Paramount has assembled a cast of Broadway favorites in support of Bebe Daniels in her latest starring picture, "Wild, Wild Susan," opening on Wednesday at the Met theater. The story is a picture version of Stuart Emery's "The Wild, Wild Child," which ran in Liberty. Rod La Rocque recently seen in "Night Life of New York," is featured in the leading man's role.

Henry Stephenson, of the New York stage hit, "Dancing Mothers," and who appeared in William de Mille's "Men and Women" is cast as Bebe's father, who is worried to death figuring out ways and means to keep his petulant daughter from daily risking her neck.

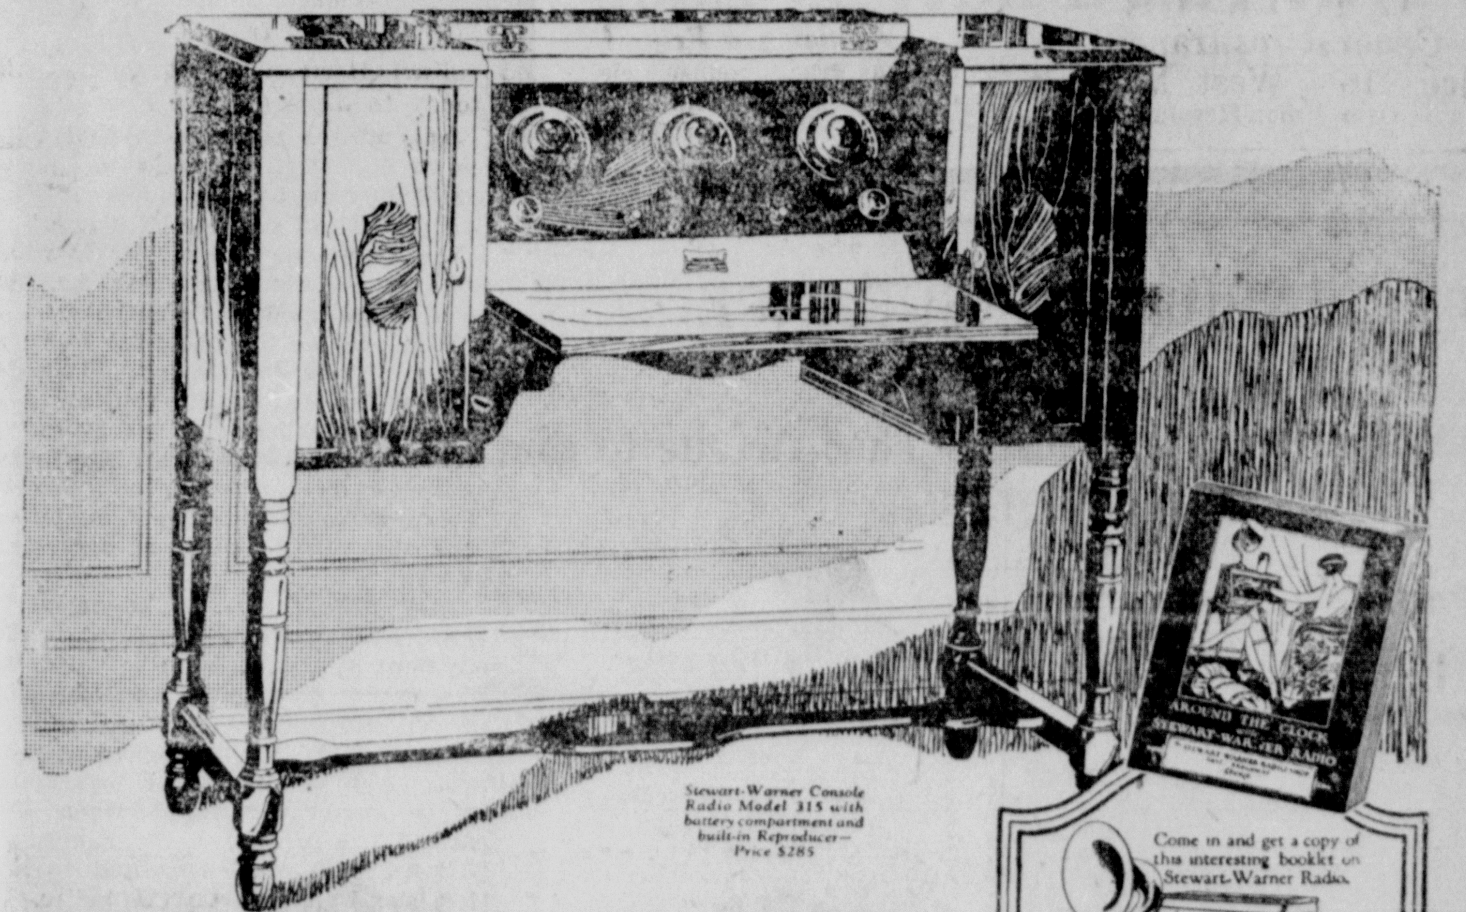

Ivan Simpson, at this writing supporting George Arliss in "Old English" plays the family butler, Malcolm, as only he can. Malcolm is a little off on one subject—detecting and devours a book on the subject in the picture. Bebe comes upon him, figures that here is a new field for thrills, borrows the book and then goes out and lands a job with a detective agency and the fun starts. Simpson also appeared with Miss Daniels in "Miss Bluebeard."

Osgood Perkins, of "Begger on Horseback" also has a prominent supporting role. Another player from the legitimate theater is Russell Medcroft, who appeared in the original production of "Sonny" with Emma Dunn.

Jack Kane, Helen Holcombe, "the girl with the Mona Lisa smile," Warren Cook, Joseph Smiley and Mildred Ryan complete the cast.

"Wild, Wild Susan" was written for the screen by Tom Geraghty who wrote the screen play, "Old Home Week," starring Thomas Meighan. Eddie Sutherland, who made Meighan's "Coming Thru," directed. The story is a speed romance laid in New York City. Bebe wears the latest and most alluring fashions.

LIABILITY INSURANCE

What It Is and the Benefits That Accrue to the Policy Holders.

I wonder if you realize that every car owner is responsible to the public for the operation of his car, whether he drives it himself or allows others to drive it.

PUBLIC LIABILITY is an insurance term indicating the responsibility the car owner is under for injuries or death inflicted on persons thru the operation of his car.

It is most important of all automobile insurance features, owing to the unknown possibilities of the claims.

Some of the factors making accidents and consequent liability claims daily more numerous, and the owner's risk in operating a car an ever increasing one, are:

CONGESTION OF TRAFFIC. Roads are about the same width as formerly, yet traffic thereon has greatly increased. Between fifteen and twenty million motor vehicles are registered in the United States today. This vast number is being increased daily.

LOW PRICES OF SECOND-HAND CARS have added greatly to the number of irresponsible drivers, who menace all other users of the roads. The careful, sane driver is often the sufferer from the faults of others.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS are a constant temptation to speedsters and encourage less careful attention on the part of all drivers.

THE CHILDREN MUST PLAY, and there being very little yard space around the average city home, the playing is done in the path of the motorists. The heavy tolls of 1924 in life, injuries and property losses have been given wide publicity in the press of the country.

AMBULANCE-CHASING LAWYERS (and there is one or more in every city) make a business of creating cases against any car owner involved in an accident, whether or not it is serious, whether or not he is liable and particularly if he has property.

COURT CHARGES AND ATTORNEY'S FEES MUST BE PAID, and eventually, possibly a heavy judgment to be paid with interest and costs. The feelings, sympathies and judgments of juries are generally in favor of the injured and against the car owner. Verdicts for injuries or death run into thousands of dollars, and are larger than ever before. Even if you win, your expenses mount to a large figure.

An automobile liability guarantees the investigation of claims whether you are liable or not, adjusts, pays, fights your case if necessary, pays expenses, lawyer's fees and court costs, relieves you from responsibility and worry. It does all of this for the owner and for any one legally operating the car with the owner's permission.

If you are now carrying liability insurance, the above facts will serve to strengthen the conviction that led you to protect yourself.

This information, coupled with the fact that last year no fewer than twenty-eight states introduced bills for compulsory liability insurance, is conclusive evidence of the advisability of every car owner relieving himself of personal liability.

Riding Her Hobby

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

HAD the morning been anything but wet and gloomy Cornelia would not have stopped and gone into the tea room that had recently taken up its abode in the village.

Cornelia was weary with sloshing through the rain trying to think out an original finish to her latest yarn. Her stories lacked vitality of late. Romance and ideas seemed to have left her brain for the time being.

The small tea room which carried the name "Bob's" on its neat sign board proved quite interesting within, carried out as it was in black and white.

"Lacks color though," criticized Cornelia as she slipped off her dragged raincoat.

A young man emerged from somewhere in the rear of the shop and came forward for her order.

"A large cup of coffee, please," said Cornelia and glanced up to see a pair of most appreciative eyes enjoying her good looks.

But then, there was excuse—Cornelia was undoubtedly lovely with her brilliant rainwashed cheeks, her hair curling in damp ringlets and her eyes alight with kindled interest.

While the young man was away getting her coffee Cornelia took a more intimate survey of the decorations. They were most artistic, with strange drawings and bits of quaint statuary but it was just lacking the effective, magnetic note of color.

Cornelia was now riding her hobby. She was trying to put the ultimate note into an otherwise perfect surrounding. She was what material people called a "nut" when it came to "helping strange beings on to a more successful plane."

When the young man returned with a steaming cup of coffee, Cornelia had decided that the tea room, if it were to lure hundreds of people within its doors, must have a tiny knot of flowers on each table—zinnias for choice. Also there must be a few choice ones in the tiny window.

She looked up so suddenly with a view of expressing her ideas that the young man trembled, the cup balanced precariously and would have emptied its entire contents on Cornelia's lap had he not with a dexterous movement prevented it. As it was a few drops splattered her gown.

"Perhaps you need a new waitress?" suggested Cornelia with mischief in her eyes.

"I need one very much," said the young man after his more than profuse apology, "but I can't afford one. I am chief cook, bottle-washer, waiter, and in my spare time try to do a bit of sketching."

"I'll take it on for my meals," Cornelia suggested and felt a warm glow of hope. She suddenly had a tremendous desire to help this young man to success. For the time being her muse had left her brain barren of ideas. This would afford a new experience and, as a matter of fact, Cornelia had taken a fancy to the owner. With her keen perspicacity she realized that he was having a severe struggle. Perhaps the tea room would have to be abandoned and all his financial support lost.

"If you're a real sport you'll take me on and when we make this place one of the most popular places on Long Island, you can give me back pay."

The young man hardly knew what to say. He wanted to be game, but he also hesitated to accept her.

"You are far too beautiful to be a waitress," said Bob frankly. "I should be wanting to sketch you all day instead of making apple turnovers."

Cornelia laughed softly, but a flame had shot its color into her cheeks. "I can make the turnovers, and perhaps you can do a bit of sketching as well."

They started the new arrangement next day. Cornelia appeared ready for work in a neat-fitting brown dress with a tiny morsel of apron of a hue known as coral.

Bob sighed when he looked at Cornelia. He knew that he was going to be terribly annoyed when she carried tea to any of the masculine patrons. He even suggested to her that she wait only on the ladies.

The look she had given him had completely shattered the remainder of his heart.

Cornelia, being well known and with plenty of friends, had to enjoin secrecy from them. They respected her wishes and knew she was only up to more of her helpful escapades. They came in droves to Bob's tea room and soon Bob and Cornelia were feeling themselves well on the road to success.

But with all their success Cornelia was dispirited. Bob was making heaps of money now sketching all his wealthy patrons and getting orders for illustrating books. Cornelia was writing now with great brilliancy. Of course it was love that had played the great hand.

"I am not going to wait another day for you," Cornelia told him, and she forthwith removed the wisp of coral apron and the coral bow from her hair. "I've done all the waiting I intend to do." She turned from the astonished Bob.

Bob dropped the sketch he was doing at the moment of the wealthy Mrs. Van der Pell into a fresh batch of apple fritters and swung Cornelia into his arms.

"No, you bet you're not going to do any more waiting. Neither am I. Say it right away—darling."

Notorious Theater to Revive Shakespeare

London.—Shakespeare is to invade Leicester square—the Leicester square made famous throughout the world by "Tipperary"—and is to go into the heart of what was once London's vaudeville center.

Sybil Thorndyke will play the leading feminine role in "Henry VIII," at the Empire theater, known for many years as the dizziest of all London music halls.

The bar and promenade of this theater became a public scandal, and officials intervened to remedy conditions, which had brought on a storm of protest.

Neither critics nor public seem to be able to think of the Empire as a Shakespearean house. The shades of Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum and Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's are pictured as protesting. But even if Leicester square has had a rather unsavory reputation, some of the critics point out that Henry VIII was not exactly a saint and probably will not feel out of place there.

After all, there is a statue of Shakespeare in Leicester square.

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, the well known Expert from Chicago, will personally be at the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe, Ohio, on Saturday only, January 23d.

Mr. Meinhardi says "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" will not only hold the Rupture perfectly, but will contract the opening in ten days on the average case—usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strain regardless of the size and location of the Rupture.

WARNING:—Every ruptured person should be cautioned against wearing trusses with understraps. These trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death. Therefore, do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old-style trusses with understraps. "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" has no understraps, no straps around the body or legs. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible, and should be worn while bathing. Mr. Meinhardi will be pleased to demonstrate "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" to all gentlemen who call at this Hotel from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Only gentlemen are invited to call on the above date as a special visit will be made here at a later date for women and children.

Notice:—Do not write asking to be fitted by mail as this is impossible. Every case must be seen personally. If interested you must call at this hotel on the above date. Business demands prevent stopping at any other city in this section. Home office; 3935 W. North Ave., Chicago, Ill. 14janyw1; 20janynd1.

Plant Breeders
Fight Diseases

Some of Ailments of Grain
Held in Check by Cultural Methods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Many and varied are the methods employed by scientific agriculturists to fight destructive diseases of the small grain crops. Some of the diseases of wheat, oats, barley, and other grains are held in check by cultural methods, some by seed treatment, and some by the use of "specialized fighting strains" of the crop in question. For some time plant breeders have been aware of the fact that some individual plants are stronger or more naturally resistant and immune to diseases than others. From these natural fighters the plant breeders for a long time have been assembling and mobilizing their disease-fighting soldiers and armies and deploying them to the farmer's fields to aid him in controlling his losses.

Highly Resistant Strains.
Strains of wheat, oats, barley and rye, as well as many other plants, have been discovered which are highly resistant or immune to a particular disease. From these a generous seed supply has been grown and distributed to the sections of the country where needed. This in itself has been an achievement of considerable note and value to the farmers of the country. Often it is necessary to find a variety or strain which is immune from more than one disease. As disease-resistant strains, in order to meet the needs of farmers, must at the same time be desirable in other characteristics of yield, market value, and adaptation, the problem of finding or developing "fighting strains" capable of resisting the attacks of several diseases is more difficult and intricate. Nevertheless, the plant breeders have come to the rescue of the farmer on such occasions as well.

Plan to Prevent Loss.
This was the case with wheat in the area of southwestern Illinois, where the two diseases flag smut and the rosette disease were causing great losses to the wheat growers. Fortunately among the various selections of wheat being grown by the United States Department of Agriculture in varietal tests at the Arlington experiment farm, one variety known as the Shepherd strain seemed to embody all of the desired characteristics. It was immune to both diseases and showed an average yield over a period of six years of 31 bushels to the acre. About 100 acres were sown in the infected area in southwestern Illinois in the fall of 1923 with seed from the government plots. From the product of this sowing enough seed was available for the sowing of a large area in the fall of 1924. Now many farmers have seed of the Shepherd strain of wheat and are growing it to prevent losses from flag smut and rosette.

OHIO SOUTHERN HATCHERY WAS THE SUBJECT

H. R. Gompf, New Manager, Tells Chamber of Commerce About Industry.

The Ohio Southern Hatchery was the headliner on the boards of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening. The new manager, H. R. Gompf, was the speaker, following the banquet.

The new manager is a rapid talker and quickly told their history and vision of the future.

Hatching chickens artificially is not a new thing said the speaker. They did this two thousand years ago, over in Egypt. Farmers brought eggs to the hatcheries over there and sold them for a nickel a dozen and when the chicks were hatched these same farmers were notified and they came and bought the number they could take care of and raise successfully.

We pay farmers ten cents more on the dozen than the regular market price. As we get our majority of setting eggs on Saturdays, we are forced to work the major portion of the Lord's day and fill our incubators. Each incubator is equipped with a thermostat, which regulates the temperature. Eggs are completely turned every twenty-four hours. On the eighteenth day all are tested by electricity, infertile eggs are thrown out.

A slide of the tray in front is removed just the day before hatching to allow the young birds to come forward. They seek the light. As soon as they leave the egg and fall into the lower compartment of the incubator thus making room for those that follow and no crowding occurs. The little silky covered fledglings are assorted and are placed in boxes ready for shipment. Chicks do not require feed for 48 hours this time of the year and later when it warms up they can go without feed from 48 to 90 hours. Just before hatching, Nature provides feed for the chicks as the yolk of the egg is absorbed.

All our shipments are made by parcel post. We have shipped as far as the seventh zone, but we do not think this is advisable.

In season we will employ five men. We will pay the farmer $525 a week for setting eggs alone and we expect to set 300,000 eggs and from this hatch we expect 65 per cent which is an average hatch. Our season should close with a shipment of 150,000.

The Ohio Southern Hatchery, which owns the Southern Ohio, started in the business eleven years ago.

Before we bought this hatchery it had a capacity of from eighteen to twenty thousand weekly, but we now have a capacity of 55,000. This forced us to remodel the plant and build a second floor and we have also added a new office to the building.

The old Scioto Valley hatchery, on East Franklin street, has recently been taken over by the Cloverdell hatchery now leased by Mr. and George H. Young. The latter, in partnership with Charles Schleich has leased the Lemuel Stealy farm east of this city and will raise chickens extensively this coming spring.

DECISION OF FARREACHING IMPORTANCE

Children and Heirs of Job E. Stevenson Win Partition Case in High Court.

The supreme court of Ohio handed down a decision Tuesday in one of what is known as the Stevenson-Cable partition cases.

Soon after the death of Job E. Stevenson, Mrs. Eva Stevenson Cable commenced several suits in Pickaway county and one in Champaign county for partition of several thousand acres of land which had been devised under the will of John Evans, who died in 1848.

Mrs. Cable claimed that she was entitled to a one-eighth part of all these lands, while the other children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs of E. O. Stevenson, who was a brother of Job E. Stevenson claimed that the partition should be limited and confined to a portion of these lands which was a one-half thereof of which had been set off to Job E. Stevenson, who had a life estate therein.

The suit in Champaign county was prosecuted principally as a test case and carried thru the courts of common pleas and court of appeals to the supreme court, which rendered its decision in favor of the children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs at law of E. O. Stevenson, affirming the judgment of the lower courts. Massie & Evans of Chillicothe, Owen & Miller and Owen & Owen represent the plaintiff. Abernethy & Simkins and John Logan, of Washington C. H., represent the children of Job E. Stevenson and the heirs of E. O. Stevenson.

PRESIDENT OF THRESHERMEN HIT OFFICERS

A. E. Fisher Says People are
Restless and Resentful
Over Tax Load.

"Two-thirds of the political job holders in the state ought to be fired" was the introductory statement of A. E. Fisher, Orient, president of the Ohio Brotherhood of Threshermen, in his annual address at the opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of that organization at the New Southern hotel, Columbus, Tuesday, which will continue thru Thursday.

"Earning their salary—that's a joke," continued President Fisher. "Every holiday they beat it and usually start about four days before the holiday. Besides, they have their annual vacations of a month or six weeks to recuperate from the strain of watching the clock, while the rest of us who pay the taxes have to hustle six full days a week so the office holder can live. This applies to county as well as city and state offices."

"Political office seekers know what the office pays, but soon after being elected they begin to want an increase in pay and more force in the office. This means more taxes to be paid."

"Farmers are entitled to a return on their investment and they do not want to be borrowing money all the time. What they want is good prices for what they have to raise, and they need a system of marketing that will cut out some of the profits between them and the consumer."

"Why should Ohio farms be placed on the tax duplicate at greatly enhanced valuations without investigating the earning power of the men and capital engaged in agriculture."

"The expense of the state government has increased enormously and incredibly in the last few years and the people are restless and resentful over the heavy load of war taxes in time of peace and feel they are getting no better service on the advanced cost."

"If we could dispose of numerous unnecessary high salaried commissions and reduce the salaries of state and county officials in proportion to the reduction made in selling prices and net profits, the farmer, laborer, home builder would have little cause for complaint."

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWNE

(Copyright.)

Crockey Mule Breaks Up the Circus

RUTH was lying stretched out full length on a bear-skin rug in front of the fireplace. It was the first time that the fire had been lighted since last winter. Ruth enjoyed the warmth of it, and perhaps even more she enjoyed watching the dancing flames. Beside Ruth was her geography which she had just left off studying. On the other side of her, next to the fireplace, was a toy Noah's ark and some tin soldiers with which her younger brother had been playing before Ruth's mother had come in and carried him away to bed.

As she lay on the rug, Ruth rested her chin on the backs of her two folded hands and stared straight into the coals.

Ruth watched and listened and the heat was nice and comfortable. She was just telling herself that she felt drowsy when she noticed that something was moving at the back of the fireplace. She watched. First it was a shadow. Then it was nothing. Next it was a clearer shadow. Last, right out through the hot coals, walked her little old friend the kindly Crockeyjoy.

He took hold of the grate bars at the front of the fireplace and pulled himself up to the top one. There he sat and looked about him for a moment in silence.

"Well, Ruth," he said at last, "it's a wee bit chilly outside tonight and if we went out you might catch cold. I think I can fix up something to amuse you, though. How would a circus please you?"

"Fine!" cried Ruth in delight. "Then here goes!" shouted the Crockeyjoy as though he, too, were pleased with the thought.

In less than the time it takes for a camel to bob his head up and down three times, Ruth had shrunk to the size of the Crockeyjoy. The two of them then walked over to the side of the rug which lay on the floor under the table. On this rug were figured three big rings.

"Sit down here and wait," said the Crockeyjoy. Then he took his shiny brass whistle from the vest pocket of his tunic and blew several shrill calls on it. No sooner had he done this than out from the fireplace came a long line of folks from Crockey Town. The Crockeyjoy's nephew, the Cat With Jeweled Eyes, the Queen of the Fairies, Stubby the Mole, Captain Thunderjoy and all the other folks whom Ruth had ever met, came trooping along.

After they were on the rug, the Crockeyjoy again put his whistle to his lips and blew shrilly. Then the most amazing thing happened.

All the Noah's ark animals got to their feet. The tin soldiers stood up at attention and saluted.

It was a very funny circus. The Crockeyfolks played at being clowns, and lion tamers, and cowboys. Captain Thunderjoy made a booming speech and cracked a big black whip. The Cat With Jeweled Eyes climbed on top of the elephant's head and sang a high-pitched little song. The Crockeyjoy's nephew played at being a clown. He went from animal to animal and asked them ridiculous questions. And all the animals answered him, for they could talk just like the Crockeyfolks.

Among the animals which the Crockeyjoy's nephew teased was a little white mule with a string of bells about his neck. The nephew took off his hat, cut two slits in the sides of it, then pulled it onto the mule's head and down so that its ears stuck through the slits. Then he put on his roller skates and started to skate all around the white mule's body. He could skate upside down and sideways every bit as well as when he stood straight up. He made himself a sort of loop-the-loop by skating straight around the mule's body. Up one side and down the other, faster and faster he went. His skates dug into the mule's ribs and tickled him.

"Ha-Ha-He-Haw-Ha-Ha," laughed the mule. "Quit tickling me. Quit tickling me." But the nephew only went faster.

Then the white mule started to kick frantically, in all directions. He knocked over a row of tin soldiers. There was a mighty racket. Everyone began to run.

Ruth raised her head. When she looked about her, she saw that a sudden gust of wind had tumbled over the Noah's ark and some of the tin soldiers with it. At least that was what seemed to have happened when her mother looked in a moment later.

Ruth said nothing about the Crockey circus. She jumped to her feet, kissed her mother good-night, and ran away to bed.

PHANTOM BANDIT RETURNS LOOT

Lorain, Jan. 18.—(UP.)—More than $3,000 in loot taken by Lorain's phantom bandit in forty robberies during the last two months, was returned today.

The loot, consisting of money and jewels, had been placed in a box and left on the steps of a school. The box was found by two boys and turned over to the police.

The return of the stolen articles was not due to conscience, however, because the burglar entered four more residences last night. In only one, the home of a minister, was anything taken.

Police believe the robberies are the work of some person in search of a thrill.

FEDERAL REFORMATORY IS FORMALLY OPENED

First Prisoners Arrive at Chillicothe From Leavenworth—More To Follow.

Chillicothe, Jan. 18.—Arrival here this morning of 20 federal prisoners from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kans., marked the official opening of the Camp Sherman federal reformatory, the first government institution of its kind. The 20 men, all young first term offenders, were carefully selected from the roster of the Leavenworth institution and are in charge of five penitentiary guards under the supervision of H. D. Donalds, who for the time being will be in active charge of the reformatory.

U. S. Marshal Stanley Borthwick, of Columbus, who was appointed acting warden of the reformatory at the time of its approval by the district judges several months ago, arrived here from Cincinnati this morning and swore in the five Leavenworth guards as deputy United States marshals. Luther White, U. S. superintendent of prisons, also arrived here in company with F. C. Zerbst, deputy warden at Leavenworth, to attend the opening of the new institution.

The 20 prisoners were housed in the former veterans' hospital, No. 87, which was abandoned with the opening of the new two million dollar hospital, No. 97. Wards have been equipped with hospital cots and equipment for their use and the former mess hall and kitchen placed in operation again. Prisoners will have charge of these two departments. Additional prisoners are expected to follow at short intervals as soon as the new men here can clean up the wards and install equipment.

Greenfinch a Fine Bird, Except to Poor Beetles

Washington.—The Department of Agriculture has determined that the vireo, or greenfinch, while a charming songster and useful destroyer of harmful insects, is ungallant to ladybird beetles, which also are beneficial to man and are thoroughly harmless. In fact, he eats them.

This is the only severe indictment the department has found against the vireo, all the species of which were declared in a bulletin issued to be among the most useful of birds, being especially fond of caterpillars, either plain or woolly, scale insects, weevils, ants and grasshoppers.

Long Corn Shuck Gives Protection

Scientists Discover Method for Keeping Out the Corn-Ear Worm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The corn scientists have found a way to fool the corn-ear worm. Now they are trying to develop a type of corn with a shuck extending well beyond the tip end of the ear for growing in the South, where the corn-ear worm is an active ally of another pest—the corn weevil. The corn-ear worm has a natural habit of entering the ear at the tip end of the shuck, eating his fill as he progresses down along the ear and finally cutting his way out when he is fed up. These holes made by his exit have proved to be ideal places for the weevil to enter and do further damage. The scientists have found that when the corn-ear worm enters a long-tipped shuck, however, he is more apt to bore out before he reaches the kernels, consequently doing less damage to the ear and also leaving fewer open doors for the weevil.

A number of years ago the United States Department of Agriculture showed that the weevils were unable to cut through corn husks, although they could eat the hardest rice popcorn without difficulty. The problem accordingly was to produce husk-protected strains that also would be good yielders. The problem was not a simple one, but some suitable and fairly desirable strains were found. Then it was discovered that the weevils were relying on the work of the corn-ear worm to gain entrance.

Now the problem is to develop a strain of corn that has long-tipped husks. As yet the experimenters are having some difficulty in developing a type with husks of sufficient length to fool the corn-ear worm and not too long to prevent the emergence of the silk, so that the ear will fill well. Some encouragement for the ultimate solution of the problem, however, lies in the fact that there is considerable variation among the strains in the length of husk projection that causes poorly filled ears. These strains will furnish the corn breeder with raw material to shape into the self-protecting, long-tipped variety that is wanted.

Quality of Silage

For the best quality of silage the crop must be put in at the proper time. Sorghums make excellent silage if not put in too green. Corn should go in when the kernels are glazed and denting but the sorghums must not go in until the heads are practically mature and the seed cannot be crushed with the fingers. The acid in sorghum silage is actually less than that in corn silage when the crop is put in at the proper stage.

Some firms advertise by mailing circulars. Pickaway County has about 5,000 homes. Circulars mailed to each home costs the sender about $150.

Money spent in this manner must be added to the overhead expense and the customer pays that expense.

The Circleville Welding Co.'s policy has always been to reduce expense and give the customer the benefit of the saving. Having been in business for the past six years we need no introduction. All the leading industries of Circleville and the many surrounding towns have their work done here. Why not you. We don't do a cheap job merely to meet competition but do you a real 100 percent job at a reasonable price as possible.

Welding and brazing is our business, nothing else. Bring your next job here and compare the difference in workmanship.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Military Salute

One explanation of the origin of the military salute is that which goes back to the Middle Ages in the time of jousts and tournaments, when a queen of beauty was chosen and enthroned. The knight about to take part in the contest walked past the throne and placed his hand in a horizontal position over the eyebrows to shield his eyes from the brilliancy of her beauty.

Advising a Friend

Give thy friend counsel wisely and charitably, but leave him to his liberty whether he will follow thee or no; and be not angry if thy counsel be rejected, for advice is no empire, and he is not my friend that will be my judge whether I will or no.—Jeremy Taylor.

LOANS up to $500

With the turning of the New Year, and upon sober reflection of your doings for the past year, you will probably "plead guilty" to some excesses; and resolve to live at a more moderate pace during 1926.

Be honest with yourself, and look your problem squarely in the face. If it's bad habits—correct them!

If it's loafing—get busy! if it happens to be excessive spending or a shattered credit—come to the City Loan.

A popular loan will probably help you "get squared around" so you can start the New Year "with a clean slate."

FALSE NOTION OF MARRIAGE IS PREVALENT

Cannot be Predestined and
Must Shape Itself to the Human Nature.

Chicago, Jan. 19, (UP).—The ancient superstition that "marriage was made in heaven" has much to do with the increasing number of divorces, according to Professor David Seabury, of New York.

"Marriage must shape itself to human nature and it is silly to think that they can be pre-destined" Professor Seabury declared in an address at the Sinai temple last night.

"There is nothing more insane than the present marriage ceremony in which the contracting parties promise to 'love forever,' the professor said. 'It is biologically and psychologically impossible for two persons to make such a promise because love is not of the will.'

"I believe that God is love and that what God has joined together let no man put asunder, but unless there is love the couple is not really joined."

Professor Seabury has classified seven kinds of love and explains them as follows:

1. Mate love. This is the highest form and in this classification the two people are psychic partners, just as happy together as alone—the dual solitude idea.
2. Partnership love. Here it is the desire to build a home and have children that predominates.
3. Romantic love. This follows the Romeo and Juliet idea and lasts only as long as the romance endures. It is looks for angels and gods and needs a mixture of common sense.
4. Emotional love. Magnetic unity like the devotion of a dog for its master, dominates this kind of union.
5. Sex love. Inadequate in itself, but very necessary as a supplement to other forms.
6. Propinquity. Mutual surroundings and experiences controls this form of love.
7. Frigid love. This form is nothing more than marrying for a lunch basket, the search for security and protection. Too many modern marriages are based on this.

Their degraded paganism was known as Druidism.

PRESIDENT OF KENT SCHOOL MAKING TRIP

Promoting Tour Abroad and is Absent Without Approval of the Trustees.

Kent, O., Jan. 19 (UP).—Work at the Kent State normal school here was resumed today without further interruption despite the enforced resignation of President J. E. McGilvrey, who was charged with "unpardonable conduct."

The school was in charge of E. H. Winters of the state department of education who was appointed to act as temporary executive pending the appointment of a new president by the board of trustees.

Winters was commissioned by Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education who also announced a state examiner is enroute here to conduct an audit of the school books and records.

The charge against President McGilvrey, also involving William H. Van Horn, school business manager, who was dismissed, alleged President McGilvrey promoted a European tour for students without sanction of the school board of trustees. He was also charged with absconding himself from the school without approval of the board.

McGilvrey is now reported in London completing details for the tour which Winters announced had been definitely cancelled. Money paid by students for advance reservations will be refunded, he said.

In a statement announcing McGilvrey's dismissal, the board of trustees asserted the tour was being promoted "as a college activity without their knowledge or approval."

The tour had been advertised by McGilvrey for more than two years, members of the board declared. The slogan, "On to Europe" has adorned much of the college literature, they said.

In addition to McGilvrey and Van Horn, Mrs. Isabelle C. Bourne, head resident of Moulton hall, the girls' dormitory, was removed from the school staff. The charge against her was not divulged.

Winters in a detailed report to Director Riegel, assailed the entire system in force at the school from the "highest official down to poor janitor service." He asked Riegel to remove the school from the state accredited list pending inauguration of his reorganization program.

In Praise of Dancing

Dancing, the "poetry of motion," formerly a type of religious exercise, the invention of which was ascribed to deity, was also highly esteemed as a gymnastic exercise, the practice of which was compulsory with the Spartans, old and young. Old Anacreon, most light-hearted of Greek poets, looked upon the dance as a rejuvenator of age.

AMUSEMENTS

Paramount has assembled a cast of Broadway favorites in support of Bebe Daniels in her latest starring picture, "Wild, Wild Susan," opening on Wednesday at the Met theater. The story is a picture version of Steuart Emery's "The Wild, Wild Child," which ran in Liberty. Rod La Rocque recently seen in "Night Life of New York," is featured in the leading man's role.

Henry Stephenson, of the New York stage hit, "Dancing Mothers," and who appeared in William de Mille's "Men and Women" is cast as Bebe's father, who is worried to death figuring out ways and means to keep his petulant daughter from daily risking her neck.

Ivan Simpson, at this writing supporting George Arliss in "Old English" plays the family butler, Malcolm, as only he can. Malcolm is a little off on one subject—detecting and devours a book on the subject in the picture. Bebe comes upon him, figures that here is a new field for thrills, borrows the book and then goes out and lands a job with a detective agency and the fun starts. Simpson also appeared with Miss Daniels in "Miss Bluebeard."

Osgood Perkins, of "Beggars on Horseback" also has a prominent supporting role. Another player from the legitimate theater is Russell Medcroft, who appeared in the original production of "Sonny" with Emma Dunn.

Jack Kane, Helen Holcombe, "the girl with the Mona Lisa smile," Warren Cook, Joseph Smiley and Mildred Ryan complete the cast.

"Wild, Wild Susan" was written for the screen by Tom Geraghty who wrote the screen play, "Old Home Week," starring Thomas Meighan. Eddie Sutherland, who made Meighan's "Coming Thru," directed. The story is a speed romance laid in New York City. Bebe wears the latest and most alluring fashions.

SALESMANSHIP has sold many an automobile, but it takes more than a selling talk to deliver day-in-and-day-out satisfactory automotive transportation. The man who buys a car is more often pleased than the man who buys a prospectus of one.

LIABILITY INSURANCE

What It Is and the Benefits That Accrue to the Policy Holders.

I wonder if you realize that every car owner is responsible to the public for the operation of his car, whether he drives it himself or allows others to drive it.

PUBLIC LIABILITY is an insurance term indicating the responsibility the car owner is under for injuries or death inflicted on persons thru the operation of his car.

It is most important of all automobile insurance features, owing to the unknown possibilities of the claims.

Some of the factors making accidents and consequent liability claims daily more numerous, and the owner's risk in operating a car an ever increasing one, are:

CONGESTION OF TRAFFIC. Roads are about the same width as formerly, yet traffic thereon has greatly increased. Between fifteen and twenty million motor vehicles are registered in the United States today. This vast number is being increased daily.

LOW PRICES OF SECOND-HAND CARS have added greatly to the number of irresponsible drivers, who menace all other users of the roads. The careful, sane driver is often the sufferer from the faults of others.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS are a constant temptation to speedsters and encourage less careful attention on the part of all drivers.

THE CHILDREN MUST PLAY, and there being very little yard space around the average city home, the playing is done in the path of the motorists. The heavy tolls of 1924 in life, injuries and property losses have been given wide publicity in the press of the country.

AMBULANCE-CHASING LAWYERS (and there is one or more in every city) make a business of creating cases against any car owner involved in an accident, whether or not it is serious, whether or not he is liable and particularly if he has property.

COURT CHARGES AND ATTORNEY'S FEES MUST BE PAID, and eventually, possibly a heavy judgment to be paid with interest and costs. The feelings, sympathies and judgments of juries are generally in favor of the injured and against the car owner. Verdicts for injuries or death run into thousands of dollars, and are larger than ever before. Even if you win, your expenses mount to a large figure.

An automobile liability guarantees the investigation of claims whether you are liable or not, adjusts, pays, fights your case if necessary, pays expenses, lawyer's fees and court costs, relieves you from responsibility and worry. It does all of this for the owner and for any one legally operating the car with the owner's permission.

If you are now carrying liability insurance, the above facts will serve to strengthen the conviction that led you to protect yourself.

This information, coupled with the fact that last year no fewer than twenty-eight states introduced bills for compulsory liability insurance, is conclusive evidence of the advisability of every car owner relieving himself of personal liability.

Riding Her Hobby

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

HAD the morning been anything but wet and gloomy Cornelia would not have stopped and gone into the tea room that had recently taken up its abode in the village.

Cornelia was weary with sloshing through the rain trying to think out an original finish to her latest yarn. Her stories lacked vitality of late. Romance and ideas seemed to have left her brain for the time being.

The small tea room which carried the name "Bob's" on its neat sign board proved quite interesting within, carried out as it was in black and white.

"Lacks color though," criticized Cornelia as she slipped off her dragled raincoat.

A young man emerged from somewhere in the rear of the shop and came forward for her order.

"A large cup of coffee, please," said Cornelia and glanced up to see a pair of most appreciative eyes enjoying her good looks.

But then, there was excuse—Cornelia was undoubtedly lovely with her brilliant rainwashed cheeks, her hair curling in damp ringlets and her eyes alight with kindled interest.

While the young man was away getting her coffee Cornelia took a more intimate survey of the decorations. They were most artistic, with strange drawings and bits of quaint statuary but it was just lacking the effective, magnetic note of color.

Cornelia was now riding her hobby. She was trying to put the ultimate note into an otherwise perfect surrounding. She was what material people called a "nut" when it came to "helping strange beings on to a more successful plane."

When the young man returned with a steaming cup of coffee, Cornelia had decided that the tea room, if it were to lure hundreds of people within its doors, must have a tiny knot of flowers on each table—zinnias for choice. Also there must be a few choice ones in the tiny window.

She looked up so suddenly with a view of expressing her ideas that the young man trembled, the cup balanced precariously and would have emptied its entire contents on Cornelia's lap had he not with a dexterous movement prevented it. As it was a few drops spattered her gown.

"Perhaps you need a new waitress?" suggested Cornelia with mischief in her eyes.

"I need one very much," said the young man after his more than profuse apology, "but I can't afford one. I am chief cook, bottle-washer, waiter, and in my spare time try to do a bit of sketching."

"I'll take it on for my meals," Cornelia suggested and felt a warm glow of hope. She suddenly had a tremendous desire to help this young man to success. For the time being her muse had left her brain barren of ideas. This would afford a new experience and, as a matter of fact, Cornelia had taken a fancy to the owner. With her keen perspicacity she realized that he was having a severe struggle. Perhaps the tea room would have to be abandoned and all his financial support lost.

"If you're a real sport you'll take me on and when we make this place one of the most popular places on Long Island, you can give me back pay."

The young man hardly knew what to say. He wanted to be game, but he also hesitated to accept her.

"You are far too beautiful to be a waitress," said Bob frankly. "I should be wanting to sketch you all day instead of making apple turnovers."

Cornelia laughed softly, but a flame had shot its color into her cheeks. "I can make the turnovers, and perhaps you can do a bit of sketching as well."

They started the new arrangement next day. Cornelia appeared ready for work in a neat-fitting brown dress with a tiny morsel of apron of a hue known as coral.

Bob sighed when he looked at Cornelia. He knew that he was going to be terribly annoyed when she carried tea to any of the masculine patrons. He even suggested to her that she wait only on the ladies.

The look she had given him had completely shattered the remainder of his heart.

Cornelia, being well known and with plenty of friends, had to enjoin secrecy from them. They respected her wishes and knew she was only up to more of her helpful escapades. They came in droves to Bob's tea room and soon Bob and Cornelia were feeling themselves well on the road to success.

But with all their success Cornelia was dispirited. Bob was making heaps of money now sketching all his wealthy patrons and getting orders for illustrating books. Cornelia was writing now with great brilliancy. Of course it was love that had played the great hand.

"I am not going to wait another day for you," Cornelia told him, and she forthwith removed the wisp of coral apron and the coral bow from her hair. "I've done all the waiting I intend to do." She turned from the astonished Bob.

Bob dropped the sketch he was doing at the moment of the wealthy Mrs. Van der Pell into a fresh batch of apple fritters and swung Cornelia into his arms.

"No, you bet you're not going to do any more waiting. Neither am I. Say it right away—darling."

Notorious Theater to Revive Shakespeare

London.—Shakespeare is to invade Leicester square—the Leicester square made famous throughout the world by "Tipperary"—and is to go into the heart of what was once London's vaudeville center.

Sybil Thorndyke will play the leading feminine role in "Henry VIII," at the Empire theater, known for many years as the dizziest of all London music halls.

The bar and promenade of this theater became a public scandal, and officials intervened to remedy conditions, which had brought on a storm of protest.

Neither critics nor public seem to be able to think of the Empire as a Shakespearean house. The shades of Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum and Beerholm Tree at His Majesty's are pictured as protesting. But even if Leicester square has had a rather unsavory reputation, some of the critics point out that Henry VIII was not exactly a saint and probably will not feel out of place there.

After all, there is a statue of Shakespeare in Leicester square.

RUPTURE SHIELD

EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi, the well known Expert from Chicago, will personally be at the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe, Ohio, on Saturday only, January 23d.

Mr. Meinhardi says "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" will not only hold the Rupture perfectly, but will contract the opening in ten days on the average case—usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strain regardless of the size and location of the Rupture.

WARNING:—Every ruptured person should be cautioned against wearing trusses with understraps. These trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death. Therefore, do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old-style trusses with understraps. "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" has no understraps, no straps around the body or legs. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible, and should be worn while bathing. Mr. Meinhardi will be pleased to demonstrate "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" to all gentlemen who call at this Hotel from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Only gentlemen are invited to call on the above date as a special visit will be made here at a later date for women and children.

Notice—Do not write asking to be fitted by mail as this is impossible. Every case must be seen personally. If interested you must call at this hotel on the above date. Business demands prevent stopping at any other city in this section. Home office; 3935 W. North Ave., Chicago, Ill. 14janyw1;20janyd1.

Plant Breeders
Fight Diseases

Some of Ailments of Grain
Held in Check by Cultural Methods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many and varied are the methods employed by scientific agriculturists to fight destructive diseases of the small grain crops. Some of the diseases of wheat, oats, barley, and other grains are held in check by cultural meth-ods, some by seed treatment, and some by the use of "specialized fighting strains" of the crop in question. For some time plant breeders have been aware of the fact that some indi-vidual plants are stronger or more naturally resistant and immune to diseases than others. From these nat-ural fighters the plant breeders for a long time have been assembling and mobilizing their disease-fighting sol-diers and armies and deploying them to the farmer's fields to aid him in controlling his losses.

Highly Resistant Strains.

Strains of wheat, oats, barley and rye, as well as many other plants, have been discovered which are highly re-sistant or immune to a particular dis-ease. From these a generous seed supply has been grown and distrib-uted to the sections of the country where needed. This in itself has been an achievement of considerable note and value to the farmers of the coun-try. Often it is necessary to find a variety or strain which is immune from more than one disease. As dis-ease-resistant strains, in order to meet the needs of farmers, must at the same time be desirable in other char-acteristics of yield, market value, and adaptation, the problem of finding or developing "fighting strains" cap-able of resisting the attacks of several diseases is more difficult and intricate. Nevertheless, the plant breeders have come to the rescue of the farmer on such occasions as well.

Plan to Prevent Loss.

This was the case with wheat in the area of southwestern Illinois, where the two diseases flag smut and the rosette disease were causing great losses to the wheat growers. Fortu-nately among the various selections of wheat being grown by the United States Department of Agriculture in varietal tests at the Arlington experi-ment farm, one variety known as the Shepherd strain seemed to embody all of the desired characteristics. It was immune to both diseases and showed an average yield over a period of six years of 31 bushels to the acre. About 100 acres were sown in the in-fected area in southwestern Illinois in the fall of 1923 with seed from the government plats. From the product of this sowing enough seed was avail-able for the sowing of a large area in the fall of 1924. Now many farmers have seed of the Shepherd strain of wheat and are growing it to prevent losses from flag smut and rosette.

OHIO SOUTHERN HATCHERY WAS THE SUBJECT

H. R. Gompf, New Manager,
Tells Chamber of Commerce About Industry.

The Ohio Southern Hatchery was the headliner on the boards of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening. The new manager, H. R. Gompf, was the speaker, following the banquet.

The new manager is a rapid talker and quickly told their history and vision of the future.

Hatching chickens artificially is not a new thing said the speaker. They did this two thousand years ago, over in Egypt. Farmers brought eggs to the hatcheries over there and sold them for a nickel a dozen and when the chicks were hatched these same farmers were notified and they came and bought the number they could take care of and raise successfully.

We pay farmers ten cents more on the dozen than the regular market price. As we get our majority of setting eggs on Saturdays, we are forced to work the major portion of the Lord's day and fill our incubators. Each incubator is equipped with a thermostat, which regulates the temperature. Eggs are completely turned every twenty-four hours. On the eighteenth day all are tested by electricity, infertile eggs are thrown out.

A slide of the tray in front is removed just the day before hatching to allow the young birds to come forward. They seek the light. As soon as they leave the egg and fall into the dower compartment of the incubator thus making room for those that follow and no crowding occurs. The little silky covered fledglings are assorted and are placed in boxes ready for shipment. Chix do not require feed for 48 hours this time of the year and later when it warms up they can go without feed from 48 to 90 hours. Just before hatching, Nature provides feed for the chix as the yolk of the egg is absorbed.

All our shipments are made by parcel post. We have shipped as far as the seventh zone, but we do not think this is advisable.

In season we will employ five men. We will pay the farmer $525 a week for setting eggs alone and we expect to set 300,000 eggs and from this hatch we expect 65 per cent which is an average hatch. Our season should close with a shipment of 150,000.

The Ohio Hatchery, which owns the Southern Ohio, started in the business eleven years ago.

Before we bought this hatchery it had a capacity of from eighteen to twenty thousand weekly, but we now have a capacity of 55,000. This forced us to remodel the plant and build a second floor and we have also added a new office to the building.

The old Scioto Valley hatchery, on East Franklin street, has recently been taken over by the Cloverdell hatchery now leased by Mr. and George H. Young. The latter, in partnership with Charles Schleich has leased the Lemuel Steely farm east of this city and will raise chickens extensively this coming spring.
